

COMMENT

Dear Editor

From P3

them. All God given rights, recognized here or not, are given to people and not governments. When any government body talks about needing two years or four years to enact 'their agenda' you can know that they are not acting in the people's interest. These rights are the 'people's agenda' and they have never changed since Creation. Governments are instituted by people to protect these rights and not the other way around.

Governments, at any level, working to their own agenda are doomed to failure.

These rights must also be a government's agenda:

I am free:

I am free from the control of man and especially government burden. I am free to choose right or wrong, recognizing that there are consequences to those choices. For instance, I can kill but that choice will not work out for me in the end. "Man's ultimate problem has always been sin. Freedom from eternal punishment by God's gift of salvation and Christ's atoning death on the cross has freed us from punishment of our sin. We have the responsibility to do what is right" (from Got Questions).

I Am Sovereign:

"I am sovereign is a statement of personal self-rule and self-power. It signifies that an individual takes full responsibility for their own actions, thoughts, and feelings, and does not relinquish this power to external authorities or influences." "Control over one's body is an essential part of physical sovereignty. This extends to the freedom to make choices about treatments, reproductive rights, and even minor day-to-day decisions like diet and sleep," according to human behaviourist Julie Hogbin.

The true and only sovereign is God and I shall have no other gods before me. This includes man acting as a king or queen (common sovereign) or even as a slave owner. Can a monarchy therefore, be of God?

I Have The Spark Of Divinity Within Me:

"The phrase 'divine spark' can be usefully understood as referring to the image of God and the moral awareness placed within humans by their Creator, rather than an autonomous spark of deity."

"He remains the sole sovereign creator". "This supports a purposeful beginning of human life, rather than a slow emergence from non-human ancestors" as featured by Bible-Hub.

I have the 'Spark of Divinity' and am therefore set apart from other created beings, but, I am not divine. I am in the image of God, but, I am not a God.

So, what then, is on the right side of the page?

Sincerely,
Robert Hahn
